Dike On South Side Of Lake Will Be Raised From 1 to 8 Ft.

Award of three contracts totaling more than $10 million for improvement of the Kissimmee River channel, enlargement of the Herbert Hoover Dike along the southern shore of Lake Okechobee and for replacement of an Atlas launch pad at Cape Canaveral — has been announced by the Army Corps of Engineers.

The Arundel Corp. of Baltimore, Md., at $4,113,750, was the lowest of eight bidders for dredging 9.5 miles of the shallow Kissimmee River floodway channel to a depth of some 30 feet.

The area to be dredged extends from the river's mouth at Lake Okechobee northward to the first of six locks to be constructed on the waterway.

The work is scheduled to take two years to complete.

The contract also calls for a canal connection (C 41A) which will tie in with the Kissimmee River channel, and for the extension of Levee 48, and other retention dikes.

When the entire length of the floodway channel is completed, it will provide drainage of a 758-square-mile area.

Ronee, Inc. and Reynolds and Smith, Inc. of Moore Haven, the lowest of five bidders, were awarded a $3,125,770 contract for enlargement of the Herbert Hoover Dike along the south shore of Lake Okechobee to permit impoundment of greater quantities of water.

Dredged material from the lake will add one to eight feet of height of 13½ miles of existing dikes, bringing them to an average height of 25 feet, according to Col. J. V. Sollohub, district engineer, Levees along the southern rim of the lake are 19-22 feet high.

Some of the 5½ million cubic yards of soil will be used to construct tree islands which will serve as windbreaks and help retard erosion of the levees during storms.

The levee enlargement will extend from about two miles southeast of Hurricane Gate 2 at Clewiston to Hurricane Gate 4 at the Hillsboro and North New River Canals, west of Belle Glade. The work is to be completed in about two years.

Col. Sollohub said the Cape Canaveral work contract for $3,156,171 was awarded to Paul Smith Construction Co. of Orlando, low cost of 13 bidders.

Major features of the contract include demolition of the existing 120-foot Atlas gantry and umbilical mast and construction of an all new 179-foot service tower and 93-foot umbilical, plus construction of new storage facilities, extension and modification of existing propellant loading systems, and relocation and enlargement of utilities.

1300 Extra Phone Books This Year

One way to measure the growth of Glades communities is by comparing the number of telephone directories being delivered this week with the number distributed last year at the same time.

Some 6,800 new directories are going to homes and businesses, Southern Bell's Group Manager, Bob Lee says this compares with about 5,500 delivered in March 1961.

The new telephone directory has many new and changed listings. It is easily distinguished from the old grey covered telephone book by its new and modern design.

Mr. Lee asks that the old directories be discarded and the new one referred to when looking up telephone numbers. You should call "Information" only when the number you want is not in the new directory.

Caution—Do not use the new directory until after 2 a. m. April 15th.

Here Is What Transpired At Monday's Meeting Of The Palm Beach County Commission

The Boca Raton Bible Conference, Inc., appealed to the County Commission this week for relief from tax assessments levied against the church organization.

In a letter to the commission, Bible Conference officials pointed out that housing facilities which are used for people attending the church conferences had been exempt from assessments for the past 12 years.

The commission referred the matter to its attorney with instructions to recommend what position the board should take in the matter.

Palm Beach County was richer this week by $40,000—its share of state racing taxes for the month. The payment brings racing taxes to date to $153,000 with more to come.

Also received this week from Sheriff P. A. B. Widener was a check for some $500 which represented unclaimed funds in the sheriff's office since 1956.

The county commission opened a variety of bids this week, most of them for road building equipment.

The items included road graders, a dozen trucks, tractors and mowers, line stripping machine, passenger cars, tractor shovel, culvert pipe, sprayers, brush chipper and a garbage packer.

live modern

with flameless Electric Range and Electric Water Heater

Flames and fumes are as old-fashioned as wood-burning in today's modern kitchen. When you cook with flameless electricity there's no fuel grime to soil your walls or settle on your furnishings...no soot to blacken pots and pans. Your kitchen stays cleaner...and up to 16 degrees cooler, too, because the heat goes directly into your food and not into your kitchen. It's faster, too.

Another nice thing about living better electrically is flameless water heating...something your whole family will appreciate. It's automatic, super-fast and super-safe. No noise, no odor, no constant-burning pilot flame...and no fuel is needed. Just lots of hot water in a hurry, with never a worry - and peace of mind that's priceless!

For an Electric Range, see your appliance dealer. For an Electric Water Heater...your dealer, plumber or electrical contractor.

There's no match for flameless Electric Living...IT'S CHEAPER, TOO!

Harold Dane Seeks County Board Job

Harold J. Dane, of Boca Raton, has qualified as Republican candidate for the Palm Beach County Commission, District 4, position.

The Republican primary will be held May 8.

He was elected to the Boca Raton City Commission in 1958, and was its mayor, 1958-59. He was city manager of University Park until he resigned to run for county office.

"During my two years on the Boca Raton City Commission," he said, "taxes were reduced from 14½ mills to 11 mills (25 per cent) without any increased assessments on improved property."

Dane is serving his fifth term as a director of the Palm Beach County Resources Development Board, and was a member of the committee which persuaded the State Board of Control to select a Palm Beach County site, at Boca Raton, for a new university.

Mrs. M. C. Carter left via plane from West Palm Beach for a visit with her daughter and family, Mr. and Mrs. Eugene McCall, in Chicago, Illinois. Mrs. Carter will be away until the first of May.

Seattle World's Fair To Have Florida Art

Mrs. J. D. Latham and Mrs. W. S. Evans attended the Executive Board meeting of the Palm Lake Baptist Association at the Westgate Baptist Church in West Palm Beach, Thursday.

Wilbur King Asks For RR&PUC Job

Wilbur C. King, a native Floridian and long-time active in Florida government, is seeking re-election to the Florida Railroad and Public Utilities Commission. King has served on this regulatory agency for fifteen years and is presently chairman of the commission.

King states he is running on his record, "which will continue to be a business administrative based on experience, results and willingness to serve the people."

He reviewed his major accomplishments in office and said he is especially proud of a rural telephone program; higher standards of all utility services and transportation services, with costs held to reasonable levels; the natural gas industry in Florida; a communications system second to none in the nation; and streamlined operations of the Commission which result in highly effective work from a small, competent staff.

"I have recognized through the years, the tremendous challenge before the Utilities Commission in helping Florida to become the great state it is through its utility and transportation services, and I have dedicated myself to the task of providing the best in such services at reasonable costs to the people," King stated.

King is described as a "political realist" because of his business-like philosophy of utility regulation to keep the state's utility services abreast of its phenomenal growth. The proof of progressive regulations, King pointed out, is the state's ability to meet the demands of the fantastic development of such areas as Cape Canaveral for the nation's defense, and the many modern retirement developments for Florida's new citizens.

King noted, "My record of regulation of Florida's essential services is a record which has been generally recognized over the state as fair to both the rate-payers and the fast-developing utilities."

Within the next two years, a rural telephone program initiated by King will be complete, giving telephone service to every citizen who wants it, no matter where he lives. King has been named, "Daddy of the Rural Telephone System in Florida" for the program which has placed over 300,000 rural telephones in homes throughout the state. He also worked diligently on the program of all telephone exchanges being converted to dial system which was accomplished last year. Florida is the first major state in the nation to reach this goal.

Other accomplishments named are his order for reduction of rates in areas which are served by both Florida Power and Light and Florida Power Corporation; also the equalization of rates in the areas served by Southern Bell Telephone and Telegraph Company.

Beginning as a merchant in Zolfo Springs, Hardee County, King is now a citrus grower and cattle rancher. He began his lengthy public service career as a member of the Zolfo Springs Town Council and later served as the community's mayor. He was elected to the Hardee County Commission in 1928 and served six years as Chairman of that body. He was also president of the State Association of County Commissioners. He was elected State Senator in 1944 and to the Railroad and Public Utilities Commission in 1946. He is on the Board of Directors of the National Association of Railroad and Utilities Commissioners. He is an active member of the Church of Christ and Chairman of the Board of Directors of Florida Christian College at Temple Terrace, Tampa, Florida.

"Today we need a nation of Minute Men citizens who regard the preservation of freedom as a basic purpose of their daily life"

—JOHN FITZGERALD KENNEDY

10 days after his inauguration as the 35th President of the United States.

Twenty years ago, in the dark, uneasy days before Pearl Harbor, the Minute Man of Concord, timeless symbol of our Nation's determination to defend its freedom, emerged as the emblem of the U. S. Savings Bonds Program. When war came, the Minute Man became the rallying force behind the huge and overwhelmingly successful effort to back our fighting men with War Bonds.

In this, the 20th anniversary year of Savings Bonds, the Minute Man of Concord calls all Americans to an unremitting effort to help preserve our peace and freedom, threatened by forces more powerful and resourceful than those we faced in 1941. Though this effort will take many forms, one way open to all is the continued investment in Shares in America, U. S. Savings Bonds, by "citizens who regard the preservation of freedom as a basic purpose of their daily life."

Christian warfare, in which spiritual good overcomes the evil in human thinking, is a theme of the Lesson-Sermon to be heard Sunday at Christian Science church services.

Scriptural selections will include Paul's exhortation: "The night is far spent, the day is at hand: let us therefore cast off the works of darkness, and let us put on the armour of light" (Romans 13). "Are Sin, Disease, and Death Real?" is the title of the Lesson-Sermon.

This citation from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy will also be read: "Christians must take up arms against error at home and abroad. They must grapple with sin in themselves and in others, and continue this warfare until they have finished their course. If they keep the faith, they will have the crown of rejoicing" (p. 29).

Progress is the result of change, but all change does not result in progress.

Changing something just to present it as new and different doesn't necessarily mean it has been improved. You can SAY it's better (a lot of people may believe you) but can you prove it?

The Reds in China the Communists in Russia and, most recently, the Castro gang in Cuba, are working hard to convince their people they are living under the best system in the world. They're having a tough time putting it over.

Whatever differences there may be between them, Mao, Khrushchev and Castro are in agreement on one point: They aren't able to deliver on their plans for increased food production.

Red China has been scrounging around for long-term credits for purchase of heavy tonnages of food with which to stave off famine. Khrushchev is going to gamble on obtaining a quick boost in food output by planting all the grasslands to crops.

Now Castro has found it necessary to clamp down severe rationing on food and other essentials. Arms he has, yes, but better living for Cubans, no. Just tighten the belt another notch, keep the spirits high and support the revolution, he urges.

On the heels of the rationing order came official admission that Cuban sugar production has slumped. Who's blamed for that? The Cuban workers, and by the government, no less! The workers, however, have been disillusioned. They thought they were going to own their own land, work for themselves and be their own bosses. Instead, they discovered they are expected to work for the government on land owned by the government.

There has been a great deal of change in Communist countries. But, I doubt that their people, with ever-tightening belts and shrinking stomachs, will agree that it's progress.

The one thing Communist leaders appear unwilling to do, that would go far to solve their problems in agriculture, is to permit their farmers to own the land, livestock and equipment, give them sufficient machinery and fertilizer and let them sell their commodities where they can get the best price.

That is the system that has put American agriculture way out in front and made ours a nation of surplus production. That it COULD work, in Communist countries is evident from Russian statistics. The small plots Russian peasants are permitted to own represent only 4 per cent of the total arable land, yet this small amount of individual effort produces 50 per cent of the country's milk, 25 per cent of the pork, 65 per cent of the potatoes and cabbages, 47 per cent of all meat and 82 per cent of the eggs.

So what do the Russian peasants do? Why, naturally they work harder for themselves than they do on the big communal farms, because what they produce on their own they can sell. It weren't permitted to do it and sell cash crops, the Russian food shortage would assume famine proportions.

The spur of individual profit incentive has been lost in the Communist effort to substitute the welfare of the state for the welfare of the individual. It may sound good in theory, but it just doesn't work out in practice.

No system is perfect, not even our own, because the manner in which a system operates depends on individuals and throughout history it has been demonstrated that man, being an imperfect creature, through generation after generation after generation has reacted in the same manner to the same kind of incentives.

In America we have been striving constantly for improvement in all fields of endeavor, including agriculture, but always we have managed to stay within the framework of the principles enunciated in our Constitution. By holding to such a course I believe we shall be able to continue making changes as conditions require, and the changes we find it advisable to make will be real Progress—with a capital "P".

US 27 Will Be Made Available To Towns

County Commissioner Paul Rardin reported to the county commission this week that a series of connecting roads has been made part of the program for improving and relocating U. S. Highway 27 on the south side of Lake Okechobee.

Rardin said the people of Lake Harbor, Bean City and Bare Beach had been concerned about access roads to the new U. S. 27 which is being relocated up to a half mile from the three communities. The State Road Department, Rardin said, has made plans to build a connecting link from each of the communities to the new highway.
